Celebration in Honor of Warden John J. Murtha's Year of Reforms.

SPEECHES BY NOTABLES

Industry, Health and Good Conduct Supplant Idleness. Vice and Disorder.

For a long time stabbing affrays in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary avcraged two a week; in the past year there have been only two.

Every week the warden had to lock thirty-eight men in the cooler for transgressing the prison rules; now the average is only six, although the rules are unrevoked.

From Saturday to Monday, and or holidays, all prisoners were shut in their cells; now, if they are entitled to hours of sunshine, they get them every day. In the workshops industry has replaced sullen listlessness, for industry now hastens the day of parole. On the faces of the convicts the old "prison pallor" has been banished by sunburn and hollows in the cheeks of the drug slaves have filled out in the absence of dope. And for a whole year no one has tried to escape. Nobody asserts that wings have sprouted on the Blackwell's Island prisoners, but because there have been great and hopeful changes and because John Murtha, the instrument of the Department of Correction in converting a typical old time prison into a real reformatory, has sat in the warden's chair exactly a year, the penitentiary had a celebration in his honor yesterday.

Jabilation by 1,000 Inmates.

Old codgers on Queensboro Bridge or the brewery bastioned shore of Manhatthe brewery bastioned shore of Manhattan undoubtedly were shocked by what they saw on the Island. Strange goings on for a penitentiary. The main building of the penitentiary had been decrated with flags loaned by John Wanamaker. The 1,000 prisoners, in khaki trousers and white or striped shirts, sat all morning on the lawn in front of the administration building, listening to and making speeches, singing, piano playing, ciapping their hands, cheering, smoking and drinking in the music of a band, which they hired out of their own pock-

"P" on its caps and "M. S." (Murtha's Stars) on its shirts was profoundly walloped by the sailors of the battleship Oklahoma. And in the evening a concert with any number of good vaudeville features—all prison talent.

But if there were any hostile observers they must have noticed also that an adequate number of blue uniformed keepers were distributed among the prisoners, for although Blackwell's has a League for Social and Moral Advancement, which has copied some of the ment, which has copied some of the methods of Sing Sing's Mutual Welfare Lesgue, the authorities and not the convicts are running the institution.

Lewn Party Began at 9 O'Clock,
The lawn party began at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. There was a speakers' stand whereon sat Warden Murtha, Commissioner of Correction Burdette G. Lewis and his predecessor, Miss Katharine B. Davis, now chairman of the Board of Parole; Deputy Commissioner David I. Kelly, Bertram D. Cruger, a member of the Board of Parole; Mrs. H. F. J. Porter of the prison committee of the Church of the Ascension, and others personally known to the islanders. others personally known to the islanders. Looking down upon an audience that couldn't get away if it wanted tolanguage that every man could understand, told his charges that he was old fashioned enough to believe "that prison reform and reorganization to be successful must rest upon the perform-ance by each immate of a good solid day's work." It had been his experience that most ex-convicts were handi-capped in keeping jobs because they were unable to concentrate and work continuously. His administration was while being questioned by a Federal Judge in a case wherein he was a wit-ness, his offence being contempt of court. Anyway, the Chief speaks twenty-one languages, whole or in part, and is handsome enough to have his own face on a coin if the Government desires another subject. He works around the warden's house, and there are six little Murthas who are going to feel pretty bad when he goes away next month. He announces that he is going to work among the Seminole Indians in Florida for Mrs. Henry M. Flagler as soon as he is leased.

Dr. Richard C. Flower Speaks.

Well, Chief Johnson got all that any one could get out of "The Rosary," and also recited his life story on the plano. Then arose, to represent the prisoners in the oratory, a ruddy, gray haired. stocky man who was introduced by the warden as Carfer Howles Lichlard, pres-ident of the League for Social and Moral Advancement and editor of the Island's monthly journal, the Prison Observer.

He proved to be none other than Dr.
Richard C. Flower, who, after eleven years of hiding from all kinds of police was arrested in Toronto and sentenced in 1914 to serve two years in the penitentiary for mining swindles.
Dr. Flower is cured of the drug habit which made him appear a wreck when he landed on Blackwell's. He is well aware of his position as the peniten-tiary's most famous prisoner. He has used this prestige for good among the other prisoners, the warden says, and the doctor says he is going to devote the rest of his life to prison work, beginning next Tuesday, when his term, shortened by parole, ends.

Once a Campbellite Preacher.

Years and years ago Dr. Flower was a Campbellite preacher. He still talks as from a pulpit. He poured superlatives over the accomplishments of the past year on the island. He said the island had been "transformed."

"Compare conditions to what they were a year ago," he said, turning to the visitors, "and you'll take off your hats to these boys. The two greatest hats to these boys. The two greatest hats to these boys. The two greatest hats ranch hands I was compelled to fice.

"He sure did!" shouted one of the ican camp and volunteered my services as a scout. I continued with that or-ganization until I was taken ill ten days "In the old days," Dr. Flower went and themselves. The nights were hideous with profanity. The lullaby of the men in their cells was a stream of in-famy. The keepers were forever cursing the prisoners for swearing; the kettle was shricking at the coal for being black.

Keepers Are Real Teachers.

"There has been more progress here in one year than in ten years in any other prison in the United States. In the future the keepers are going to be not guardians of iron bars and iron doors, but teachers and nurses. It is time the country knew that New York is leading the country in prison reform."

Then the band—remember, it was paid for by the nickels and dimes of the prisoners—played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the prisoners filed into the mess hall, where apple pie and a sack of tobacco for each man was added to the regulation corned beef, beans, bread and water. The warden and Mrs. Murtha took the official party and witnesses from newspapers to their home for luncheon spiced the meal with more song. Field sports preceded the ball game Field sports preceded the ball game after luncheon.

For the sake of Warden Murtha's feelings nothing of the ball game is here reported except the fact that although his Stars had a Shinnecock Indian as pitcher.

Men Are Nervous.

Officers and men of the New York division showed signs of nervousness during the last twenty-four hours that indicated that all is not enthusiasm and confidence below the surface.

This spirit has been provoked by three principal factors, first, Major-Gen.
O'Ryan's statement that the division might have to remain at the border until Christmas; second, the term "training camp" used in a division order with reference to the border concentraion, and, third, the fact that a number of officers and men have been notified by their employers that men with de-pendents will forfeit their positions un-less they apply for their releases. There were nineteen applications for releases in three companies of the Sev-enty-first vesterday, and there have been enty-first yesterday, and there have been fifteen in the Seventh up to date, while in the Twelfth the average of requests for releases is six to a company.

A growing restiveness is making itself felt in all ranks and the question is being asked whether the Government is keeping the National Guardsmen at the border "for the fun of it," and on all sides it is remarked that there is no fun $20,000 Bail, Served Under Gen. Pershing.

Health conditions are still fair. The field hospitals have nineteen cases, mostly digestive disorders due to the heat. There is not a single case of infectious disease in any of the New York camps. Brig.-Gen. Dyer to-day termed the heat the most difficult thing the guardsmen have to combat.

"The heat and the inaction eats into the men," said he. "For several hours of the day there is nothing they can do but as a grout in Mexico with Gen. Pershing's lie around in their tents and think of after the cadets came from their morn-things to criticize." Hospital Plans Up.
